Rail Transport

Go on your way through the New Silk Road.

Rail Transport

The latest alternative to sea and air transport

Rail transport is said to be as fast as air and economic as sea transport. There is a little bit of truth in this, because it is an indirect transport between the two mentioned above - both in terms of price and time. It is also an alternative to road transport and a complement to our comprehensive offer. We offer rail transport services in Poland as well as between China and Europe using the Trans-Siberian railway called the New Silk Road.

The increase in fuel costs and pro-ecological attitude of enterprises forces the development of rail transport in our country, which in turn favors the choice of this form of transport by numerous companies. More and more entrepreneurs are willing to choose this form of transport because it is not dependent on weather conditions or road conditions to a large extent. The choice of this solution often also makes it possible to reduce transport costs, minimize the risk of accidents and allows for precise logistic planning of cargo transportation even on very long routes, such as from China to Europe.

We offer FCL and LCL transport as well as sea transport from China and surrounding Asian countries in the option of multimodal transport to railway terminals.
